Sermon points

Unity in Diversity

The Apostle Paul calls us to maintain unity in the body of Christ, even amidst our differences. This unity is rooted in our shared faith and common humanity, not in uniformity of opinion or political affiliation.

The Nature of Humility

Humility is not thinking less of ourselves, but thinking of ourselves less. It allows us to approach others with an open heart and mind, enabling us to listen without immediately formulating a rebuttal.

Listening as an Act of Love

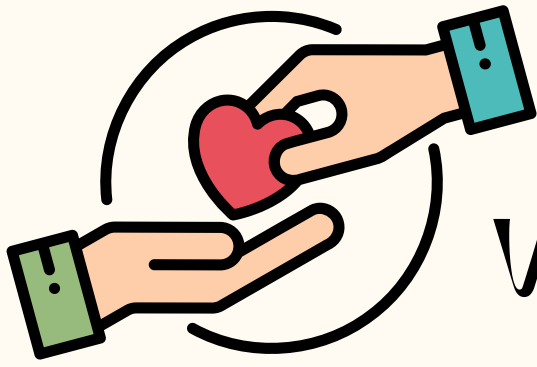

In a world where everyone is clamoring to be heard, we are called to listen more and speak less. Truly listening to someone honors their humanity and creates space for understanding and empathy to grow.

Transcending Political Divides

As Christians, our ultimate allegiance is to Christ, not to any political party. We are challenged to look beyond our differences and find common ground with those who think differently than we do.

Becoming What We Pray

We are called to be the change we wish to see in the world, embodying the virtues of humility, gentleness, and patience. By choosing to listen and approach others with humility, we can reveal the Kingdom of God through our actions of love and understanding.
